

Spinlogics Launches its new Artificial Intelligence Powered App AI Assis – A Personal, Social and Networking Assistant

Jun 25, 2018, Hyderabad - Leading Indian IT solutions provider Spinlogics has recently launched a new artificial intelligence based app that works as a personal, social and networking assistant and runs errands for its users. The AI based app uses voice queries and natural language user interface to the users.

The app offers personalized services such as answering queries, make suggestions and recommendations, follow commands and more...Working like a real personal assistant, it makes phone calls, checks out information, schedules events, gives reminders, navigates areas, gives you information on entertainment, social media and more... The app accepts voice as well as typed commands.

Designed with advanced machine learning techniques, the app learns from the user's actions, choice and preferences to offer enhanced services. It seamlessly carries out chores such as ordering food, booking services such as cab, movie tickets and more...One of the advanced features of app AI Assis is that based on user's interests, actions and objectives, it filters out social media news feed for the user. Going a step beyond than the apps currently available in the market, AI Assis checks the authenticity of the social media news feed and illustrates the same to the user...

Speaking to the CEO of Spinlogics, he says "There are several apps today in the market that carry out human like actions for its users. However, most of them are lacking in AI and machine learning. Therefore, their applications are limited to accepting commands and following them. There's hardly any interactive association with the user and this restricts the user experience.

As against this, AI Assis give a truly seamless experience. It learns from the user's experience and therefore, with each passing day, it offers improved services. Most importantly, similar apps that come currently built in with pricey cell phones and as such are not available to all. It pains me to see that even in these era of 4th Industrial Revolution and IoT, a large section of the society is being kept away from facilities for the want of social and economic reasons...Our AI Assis is an attempt to enable people across the globe a fully personalized smart solution that help them focus on the things they like, be it business or personal, by leaving the chores to AI Assis. "

He further added, "Today we are grappling with issue of fake news and information overload. One of the distinguished features that our app offers is weeding out overwhelming social media information and giving not just the news, about also checks the authenticity of the news. Thus, the user saves time from the information overload on one hand and moreover, he or she is saved from the clutter of fake, misleading information. This is the real feature that helps users save their precious time and energy."

AI Assis offers unique features such as Digital Cards, Open letter, Event Management, Execution and more, it helps users engage better with customers, friends and colleagues and create a value for the users.
